Major Hawks on the Stard During Yesterday's Session.

Hawley-Alleged Request by Helstand to Have Correspondence Burned-Hearing Proceeds Rapidly

The sub-committee of the Senate Com littee on Military Affairs, to which is eferred the investigation of what has secome known as the Manila hemp scanal, is collecting evidence regarding the charges made against Lieut, Col. H. O. S. Heistand by Major Hawks. The court proper has been in session but two days, but a great mass of evidence has already been heard. It is evidently the intention of those members of the Senate composng the sub-committee to wind up the inestigation as quickly as possible. Throughout the session there were nu erous incidents indicating that the aucust members of the sub-committee we anxious for the speedy conclusion of their task. Considerable laughter was provoked by passages between Senator Haw're, the chairman of the committee, and the witiess. On one occasion Senator Hawley, vidently nettled by the deliberate man er in which Hawks was reading a letter.

"I wish to ask that persons reading letters and talking would do so faster or let some one near them do the reading and endeavor to speak more rapidly them-

Major Hawks immediately replied: "I tope the Senator is not alluding to me." Chairman Hawley adjusted his eyeclasses and retorted: "I am sure you alked faster about hemp."

Major Hawks had the last word. Lookng up from the paper he was reading, he said in a quiet tone; "There was more nev in sight."

Major Hawks' reply caused no little musement and it was some time before the committee settled down to business. During the day subpoenns were issued for B. Jackson, the Chicago promoter, a friend of Major Hawks, and Frank Ad-derholt, of Akron, Ohio, both, it is claim-derholt, of Akron, Ohio, both, it is chained, interested in the hemp deal.

It is probable that the hearing will last for at least five or six days yet. There are many important witnesses still to be heard, among them being the ex-Secretary of War. George D. Meiklejohn. One of Major Hawk's first acts at the one of Major Hawks first account opening of the hearing yesterday merning was to make a statement regarding the charges preferred against him by Lieutenant Colonel Heistand in his answer to the charges preferred, in which Heistand ccused Hawks of having made threatenne accused officer's absence in China. nd to bring any lady's name into the ontroversy, but inasmuch as the accused filter had reflected upon himregarding his aluct toward Mrs. Heistand, he believed t perfectly proper for him to read letters Mrs. Heistand, instantly the accused of-icer's counsel, Charles W. Needham, sprang to his feet, dbjecting to the introduction of such letters. After an aniby the members of the committee a prop-mailed discussion regarding the matter by the members of the committee a proposition to the effect that the letters be perused by the members of the enquiry heard before being allowed as evidence was adopted.

At the end of this controversy, Major Hawks started in to give his testimony regarding the division of the stock of the rope company. He stated that $150,000 worth of stock was set aside to be divided between himself, Lieutenant Colonel Heistand, General Corbin, Mr. Meiklejohn, Mr. Boyd, and Dudley & Michener, the latter firm receiving theirs as payment for services rendered, Major Hawks stated that this agreement was made in Lieutenant Colonel Heistand's office in the War Department. The witness then told of his having endeavored to rulse the necessary funds in New York City to float the enterprise.

Hawks then told of Lieutenant Colonel Heistand's office in the War Department. The witness then told of Lieutenant Colonel Hoistand having called on him at his hotel in this city, while he (Hawks) was ill, and stating that Mr. Allen and General Corbin had withdrawn from the enterprise. He also said that Heistand stated that Mr. Meiklejohn desired the 'to whom it may concern' letter. He stated that Mr. Meiklejohn desired the 'to whom it may concern' letter. He stated that he at once granted Mr. Meiklejohn's request, and had his nurse take the paper from a bursan drawer, and hand it to the aucused officer. Hawks then made a statement which created no little stir in the room. He said as Heistand was leaving the room, he looked back and said:

"Major, I think you had better burn up g the room, he looked back and maid: Major, I think you had better burn up the room. He said as Heistand was leaving the room, he looked back and said: "Major, I think you had better burn up the rest of that correspondence."

All eyes were then directed to Lieutenant Colonel Heistand, who sat opposite Major Hawks with his attorner, but the accused officer only looked the witness in the eye, his features set firm. "Then," said Major Hawks, "I made up my mind to burn nothing."

When asked by Senator Harris whether or not the sentlemen named in connection with the company were expected to me made influence other than that of a stock-holder in its behalf. Hawks replied that they were not supposed to pay anything for their stock in the concern.

Some time was then spent by the committee in questioning the witness regarding the "to whom it may concern" letter given him. No prospectus of the company, he added, was ever published, but he handed to the committee a copy of one drawn up by the firm of Dudley & Michener. It was read aloud by Senator Burrows, and a number of questions asked the witness regarding it.

When questioned by Senator Burrows as to whether or not there had been any subscriptions received for the stock, Major Hawks replied that there were no actual subscriptions but many promises, He also dealed that the company was incorporated and stated that no officers were talked of.

Major Hawks then related to the court a visit he made to Adjutant General Corbin's office, where he said he informed the Adjutant General Corbin's office, where he said he informed the Adjutant General Corbin's office, where he said to the court a visit he made to Adjutant General Corbin's office, where he said he informed the Adjutant General Corbin officers and sent it with a statement to General Corbin, in each, tool the would make it out he would forward it through military channels.

"I made out a bill to H. O. S. Heistand and associates and sent it with a statement to General Corbin, and it was not forwarded through military channels."

At the afternoon session Major Hawks spoit took the stand. Whe at the afternoon session Major Hawks again took the stand. When asked by Senator Cockrell whether he had finished his evidence, Major Hawks stated that he didn't think he had, exactly, and that he wished the committee would give him time enough to confer with his attorney. The ment immediant the same time enough to confer with his attorney. The most important testimony bearing upon the interview between Hawks and Mr. Meiklejohn was one in which the Assistant Secretary is alleged to have remarked that Hawks would be unable to secure any Government position as long as Elihu Root was Secretary. Major Hawks was put through a strict cross-examination during the afternoon session. At 2 o'clock, owing to the fact that Major Hawks desired to confer with his attorney, Mr. McIntire, the court was adjourned until 2 o'clock this morning.

The Administration is seriously considring the proposition to lay a trans-Paific cable. Several corporations have re ently been corresponding with the Govoncessions at Honolulu, Guam and Ma-nia. In the Cabinet meeting yesterday orning the matter was discussed at som length, President Roosevelt has asked Attorney General Knox to examine into he laws governing the landing rights.

The only cable to the Philippines not s that of a European company who gained landing rights from the Spanish Government, which cover a period of forty years, not yet expired. An objection to the proposed cable is the argument that the inited States is bound to hold valid the Spanish concession. It is on this point that Mr. Knox will make a report. Miss Richards was one of the most popular of last season's debutantes in Philadelphia, and her reasons for declining to become the wife of Count Pallavicini, with high birth and social position, are not amounced. The full title of the Hungarian nobleman is Margraff of Pallavicini. Count Czaly, and Hereditary Lord of the Territory of the Zins. The Palavicinis were sovereigns of the principality of old Gallicene and are all connected with an Italian family of the same name. Hippolyte Paliavicini is a son of Count Czaky von Korossegh, and his countess, who was Mme, von Lonyay, is a cousin by marriage of the former Crown Princess of Austria, Stephanie, wife of the Ill-fated Rudolph. Vale Beauty Sale.

Ladies, we are having a special sale this week on Mme. Vale's celebrated line of Toilet preparations and Health remedies. There is no need for comment on their value, as their great merits have long since been established and their international fame has made them the standard preparations of the world. Mme. Yale's specialties are not cheap, they are too good for that. Cheap preparations are apt to do more harm than good. Mme. Yale's own phenomenal beauty offers the best proof of the efficacy of the Yale remedies. All women should follow her example by taking advantage of the Vale system.

HARPERS New American Historical Novel

Cardigan

ROBERT W. CHAMBERS The New York World Says:

It is a charming tale when it is a fascinating one when it is of the and of our country's ploneers, and and of our country's ploneers, and a spiring one when it deals with the nation's birth. Town Topics Says: in giving us the novel called "Cardigan" Mr. Chambers goes far to invest the his-torical novel with some of its ancient splendor.
